

Mortgage Servicing Notice of Error and Requests for Information

In accordance with the federal Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act (RESPA) & Regulation X (12 CFR Section 1024 .35 and 1024.36), borrowers have the right to notify their servicer of an error regarding the servicing of their closed-end mortgage loan or to request information related to the servicing of their closed-end mortgage loan. When you write to your mortgage servicer to ask for information or to complain about certain errors, the servicer generally has five days (excluding Saturdays, Sundays and federal holidays i.e., business days) to acknowledge your letter. The servicer generally has 30 to 45 business days to fix the error or send you the information you requested or investigate and explain why no error occurred or the information is not available. For certain errors related to foreclosure, servicers must respond prior to the date of any foreclosure sale. If the servicer thinks it didn't make an error, it has to explain in writing why. If it can't find the information you want, it has to explain why the information isn't available.

Examples of "errors" include when the servicer:

- Does not apply your payment correctly.
- Charges improper fees.
- Provides you inaccurate information about loss mitigation options and foreclosure.
- Starts a foreclosure or foreclosure sale in violation of the loss mitigation rules; or makes any other error relating to the servicing of your mortgage loan.

As part of this law, servicers may designate a specific address to which all error notices and information requests must be submitted.

If you wish to provide a notice of error or a request for information, you must write to us at the following address:

Please note that you must attention the letter to COMPLIANCE, to ensure your request is received by the correct department.
